KAJANG folk can now pay their summons through the FlexiParking mobile app's new feature.

Motorists in Kajang are the first to make use of this updated app as it is being launched today by the Kajang Municipal Council.

The updated app is expected to be made available by the Selayang Municipal Council (MPS) at the end of the month.

The app's developer and Susa Efektif (M) Sdn Bhd chief executive officer Zainuddin Othman said the new feature would make it easier for people to pay their summonses as soon as they received them. It allows for real-time data to be uploaded immediately into the system.

"The feature has been added after complaints from traffic offenders claiming it is inconvenient for them to travel so to pay their summonses. Some municipal councils, such as Selayang, cover a large area and it is sometimes difficult for people in Rawang to drive to the MPS headquarters in Bandar Baru Selayang to pay the traffic fine," said Zainuddin, adding that offenders would be eligible for any discount offered if they paid via the app.

To pay, traffic offenders need to scan the barcode printed on the summons issued.

The feature will scan the barcode printed on the summons slip, to ensure a seamless payment procedure.

Susa Efektif corporate affairs and marketing executive director Datuk Tengku Taha Alfashri said the barcode served as a safety and security wall.

"We do not want users to key in other vehicle number plates to find their summonses nor do we want people to pay someone else's summonses just because they accidentally keyed in a wrong digit in the ticket number. The barcode system will ensure accuracy," he added.

Susa Efektif hopes to introduce the feature to other councils.

Currently, the FlexiParking mobile app is being used by four local councils, namely MPS, Shah Alam City Council, Ampang Jaya Municipal Council and Sepang Municipal Council. However, their version is not yet equipped with the feature to enable payment of summonses.
